WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Jerry Moran today announced that Morgan Snapp of Washington is now working as a congressional intern in his Washington, D.C. office.

"The internship program is a good opportunity for young people to get a better understanding of the federal government," Moran said. "I am happy to have Morgan working on behalf of Kansans."

A native of Washington, Kansas, Snapp graduated from Washington High School in 2002. She is currently pursuing a bachelor's degree in business administration at the University of Kansas. At KU, Snapp is a member of the College Republicans, the Pre-Optometry club and the Mount Oread Scholars Program. She is also an officer in the National Society of Collegiate Scholars and is a Whittaker Leadership and Community Involvement Scholar.

"I am really excited to have the opportunity to work with Congressman Moran and to see first-hand how our national government functions on a daily basis," Snapp said. "It has been a longtime goal of mine to work in Washington, D.C., alongside such a diverse group of people and on a variety of issues."

In the office, Snapp is assisting Congressman Moran with legislative and administrative duties on behalf of the people of Kansas' First Congressional District.

Morgan is the daughter of Jon and Terri Snapp of Washington and the granddaughter of R.E. Snapp and the late Mary Francis Snapp of Belleville.
